2009 Report

Thank you!

Froedtert Hospital Foundation
At Froedtert Hospital we are creating a new culture of philanthropy – a greater awareness of the vital role of charitable giving. This year, we have seen this awareness grow among, staff, patients, donors and our community and are proud to celebrate with this 2009 Annual Report.

I am honored to report that philanthropy plays a dynamic role in advancing patient care, supporting education and allowing us to conduct important clinical research. Our physicians and staff actively connect the Foundation with patients and our community, building bridges that often change patients into donors and volunteers. They tell the stories of all that the Foundation does for Froedtert and how they benefit from donor-funded programs. Our staff demonstrated this commitment with new levels of giving to the organization – a measure of the health of an organization by grantmaking organizations.

Thank you for your gifts in 2009. Thank you for helping us to advance patient care, clinical research and education in very meaningful ways throughout Froedtert Hospital.

“Thank you for supporting us. You inspire me and our caregivers.”

We are especially grateful to our major donors for the impact they have made. They are the “dream makers” whether it is in new programs, a Healing Plaza, the development of a meditation space, or support for a new research project. In this time of economic downturn, the dream makers allow us to grow and respond to every opportunity.

Thank you for supporting us. You inspire me and our caregivers.

With grateful appreciation,

William D. Petasnick

Froedtert Hospital Foundation Staff back cover
You honor us, each and every day with your vision, commitment and generosity.

A year ago at this time, the Froedtert Hospital community was enthusiastically engaged in the opening of our new Cancer Center. Since that time, we’ve seen that energy and enthusiasm carry over to all areas of the hospital, including the Froedtert Hospital Foundation where we are committed to advancing philanthropy to support the mission of the hospital.

Philanthropy plays a critical role in Froedtert Hospital’s ability to sustain and enhance the research, specialization and technology that allow us to advance patient care. Thanks to generous donors like you, we can ensure the most advanced education for physicians, nurses and clinical staff, fund the latest in research and technology, and offer the most comprehensive medical treatment in the region.

I’d like to thank the Froedtert Hospital Foundation Board of Directors and Foundation staff for their hard work throughout the year and introduce three new board members; Betsy Trimble, Mark Irgens, and Bruce Block. I’m grateful for all they do to advance philanthropy at Froedtert Hospital.

Most importantly, with this Annual Report, we have the opportunity to thank each and every one of our donors and volunteers who have made extraordinary commitments of their time, energy and resources to support Froedtert Hospital and its nationally renowned patient care, education, research and community outreach.

You honor us, each and every day, with your vision, commitment and generosity.

With gratitude,

John S. Rosenberg
Board Chair
Froedtert Hospital Foundation

DEAR FRIENDS

It’s that time of year when we all pause to give thanks and it’s no different here at the Froedtert Hospital Foundation. Despite challenging economic times, the Foundation has had a tremendous year as evidenced by new board initiatives and board members. This year we’ve seen an increased dedication to the financial support of the Foundation by our staff and physicians and a growing commitment from our generous donors and volunteers.
Big and small, gifts of all sizes matter. Philanthropy helps to support important activities in patient care, education and research that otherwise might not be possible. Highlighted below are a few of many initiatives made possible by donations to Froedtert Hospital Foundation.

Patient Care
- A second mobile clinic for a free prostate cancer screening event at Miller Park, enabling a record 646 men to be screened at this annual event.
- New brain imaging technology, magnetoencephalography (MEG), for patients with brain tumors and epilepsy. Froedtert is first in the state to use MEG in a clinical setting.
- Vouchers for low-income cancer patients for skin and hair care products and services at the Cancer Center’s Small Stones Wellness Center.
- Rehabilitation equipment for the Spinal Cord Injury Center.
- A new support group for bladder cancer patients.
- Room refurbishing for bone marrow transplant patients, as well as audio-visual equipment for patient education and therapy.

Education
- Four advanced training programs, or fellowships, for physicians interested in careers in certain underserved specialties (neurosciences, cancer care and women’s sports medicine). Teaching the next generation of health care providers is a central part of Froedtert’s mission.
- Four $2,500 nursing scholarships, bringing the total to 12 since 1996.

Research
- Participation in a national, 12-site study of high-intensity ultrasound as a potential treatment for men with prostate cancer.
- Research into the development of non-alcoholic fatty liver disease—the most common liver disease in children and adults—and its progression into cirrhosis and liver failure.
- A temporary research position for continued studies of Alzheimer’s disease. The focus is on drugs to slow the disease progression and brain imaging to track cognitive changes caused by the disease.

Special Initiatives
- Indigent Care Fund: Whereas the hospital’s charity care program provides necessary medical treatment to disadvantaged individuals, the Indigent Care Fund helps to provide non-medical support services critical to the well being of a patient and their family. At a time when many donors are motivated to support our patients’ most basic needs, the Indigent Care Fund does just that, providing stipends for groceries, clothing, transportation, necessary medical equipment and short-term prescription needs.
- Healing Plaza: The new Mortenson Construction Healing Plaza will provide a park-like setting for patients and their families to decompress, reflect and relax. Nestled between the Cancer Center and the entrance to Froedtert East, this island of green space will feature trees, walking paths, interesting landscaping and other features.
It was a nightmare unfolding in real life as Monica Partenfelder watched an oncoming freight train barrel straight toward the family mini-van.

The Memorial Day accident is familiar to many in southeastern Wisconsin: the van trapped on the railroad tracks; the Elm Grove police officer who worked desperately alongside Monica’s husband, Scott, to pull their young son from the back seat; the sound of the screeching collision that sent Scott and the officer flying; baby Mack found miraculously unharmed in the back of the crumpled van.

After being transported to Froedtert Hospital, Officer John Krahn was treated for several broken bones while Scott underwent surgery for internal injuries affecting his kidney, pancreas and spleen.

In addition to 16 broken ribs, he sustained a nearly fatal tear between his heart and aorta. Amazingly, little Mack didn’t have so much as a scratch, something his parents attribute to the proper installation and use of their son’s car seat.

The 16 days were a blur as Scott recovered in Froedtert’s Surgical Intensive Care Unit. Monica juggled being with him, keeping as normal a routine as possible for their three children, and fielding interview requests from local and national news outlets eager to share the story.

“The surgeons explained in detail why certain things had to happen in a specific way and more importantly what I could do to make my recovery a swifter and less painful one,” Scott explains. “This obviously paid off, because I was home far sooner than anyone had anticipated.”

He is equally grateful to the nurses who cared for him. “During the 10 days on the respirator when I was unable to speak, they became my advocates for absolutely everything,” he says. “It got to the point that they would anticipate my needs. They truly empowered themselves on my behalf.”

Outside of Scott’s physical needs, Monica recalls the genuine concern she felt the doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff had for the family. From the psychologist on the hospital’s trauma team who helped the couple deal with emotional aspects of the accident to the media specialist who guided them through the rigors of being an overnight news sensation, the Partenfelders are thankful for every facet of care they received.

“We had never been in any situation like that and they were fantastic in the way they helped us deal with what was going on,” Monica says. “We’re truly blessed,” Scott says. “We’re thankful to be home as a party of five again.”

C.A.R.A. Donation and Car Seat Program

Automobile safety is a cause that is important to another Froedtert Hospital Foundation friend, the Championship Auto Racing Auxiliary (C.A.R.A.).

For the last five years C.A.R.A. has been a generous donor to Froedtert Hospital Foundation. The organization, which serves the professional auto racing community through its charitable work, partners with the Milwaukee Mile each year to make a financial donation and an in-kind donation of car seats through C.A.R.A.’s Buckle Up Baby Program.

This generous support will fund a new Froedtert program. Through a partnership with the Children’s Health Education Center (CHEC), members of our community who are in need will be able to attend a child-safety workshop. Participants who complete the workshop receive a voucher for a free car seat courtesy of the Froedtert Hospital Foundation. The seats will be available to families who receive care in Community Clinics or the Froedtert Trauma Center, especially those who need to replace their unusable car seat after an accident.

The program is an exciting example of community partnerships at their best—organizations joining strengths to save a life.
When Cathy Benjamin talks about her husband, Jim, she remembers an eternal optimist who, even while undergoing cancer treatment, said he felt he was the luckiest man in the world.

“So many times he said he was the luckiest man because of the timing of his initial diagnosis, the opportunity to make Froedtert his choice, and the support from family and the health community at the hospital,” Cathy recalls.

Their short odyssey began in June 2008 when Jim was diagnosed with a brain tumor. Although the couple had moved to Florida, they maintained a strong network in the Milwaukee area from Jim’s years at Harnischfeger Industries. Their son lived in Wauwatosa; their daughters and Jim’s mother were in neighboring states. They were familiar with Froedtert Hospital from past cancer treatment Cathy and her sister received. All signs seemed to point to Froedtert for Jim’s fight against the disease. Learning he could take part in clinical trials made the decision even easier.

“He always felt if there was something he could give, he would,” Cathy says, noting that Jim donated more than 130 pints of blood during his lifetime.

The surgery to remove the tumor and follow-up radiation therapy were successful. Jim was involved in a number of clinical trials and experienced many personal connections with the doctors, nurses, technicians and therapists who cared for him. “They were just extraordinary in how personal they were with their concern with him and us as a family,” Cathy says.

Then a second tumor developed on Jim’s brain stem. Genetic testing revealed that certain chemotherapy treatments would not be effective. He deteriorated quickly and lost his battle on June 11, three days after he and Cathy celebrated their 35th anniversary.

To show their appreciation to what Cathy calls “the Froedtert community,” the Benjamin family established the James C. Benjamin Family Brain Tumor Research Fund, beginning with his mother, Jane C. Benjamin’s initial gift. The family also plans to donate a bench in the hospital’s Healing Plaza in memory of the husband, father and grandfather who loved reading and travel.

“We are so grateful for the Benjamins’ ongoing support, for their trust in us, and for sharing their vision that one day we will be able to prevent and cure this terrible disease that robbed them of such a wonderful man,” said Jim’s neuro-oncologist, Mark Malkin, MD.

“It’s such an aggressive and debilitating disease,” Cathy says. “We hope we can be part of something that will help people in the future. We know it’s something Jim would have been pleased to be part of.”

— Cathy Benjamin

A LEFT TURN TO PLANNED GIVING

It was a left turn by a box truck in 1996 that introduced Ralph and Kathy Ley to Froedtert Hospital.

Ralph was airlifted from the accident scene in Watertown to Froedtert, where he received lifesaving treatment for massive internal injuries and more than a half-dozen surgeries to repair his severely damaged legs. Ralph’s right ankle was so badly mangled that amputation was discussed. His two months in the hospital were followed by a long recovery at home.

“Well, I’ve still got my right foot,” Ralph says proudly. “They saved his life,” adds Kathy. “We’re very, very grateful for that.”

Both Ralph and Kathy have returned to the hospital for additional care, getting to know more about Froedtert and the Medical College of Wisconsin over the years. Through that care and tours around the hospital, the couple came to recognize the unique strength of the hospital.

“Because it’s a teaching hospital, we both believe that they probably have a lot of cutting edge technology available to people,” says Ralph, a retired design engineer. “The doctors that practice there are doctors and professors. If you’re going to be a good teacher, you have to be a good doer.”

When Ralph came in for an ankle infection in 1997, for instance, Dr. James Sanger was the physician who cared for him. “He was the only one doing wound therapy then, now there’s a whole department doing it,” says Ralph, who saw Dr. Sanger again in May when a lawn mower severed three of his fingers. Ralph asked to be transported to Froedtert, even though hospitals in Madison would have been much closer.

“‘We feel very confident about the things that are happening there,’” says Kathy. “‘And have recommended it to a number of our friends,’” Ralph adds.

In appreciation for the care delivered here, Ralph and Kathy have directed their annual donations to the hospital’s Chaplaincy program, as well as the Orthopedic Surgery and Plastic/Reconstructive Surgery programs. Because Ralph is a retiree of Johnson Controls, his and Kathy’s gifts designated toward educational initiatives have been matched by Johnson Controls Foundation.

Thinking toward the future, Ralph and Kathy have made plans to direct a portion of their IRA to Froedtert Hospital Foundation. Their commitment qualifies them for membership in the Signature Society. Ralph and Kathy humbly downplay their commitment, saying simply, “We’re just a small part of the big picture.”

Froedtert Hospital Foundation launched a new charitable gift annuity program in 2009. For more information on annuities or any aspect of planned/estate giving, visit us online at www.froedtert.com/giftplanning.

Gift Supports Liver Disease Research

Estate gifts make a difference. In 2009, for example, a gift directed to digestive disease research from the estate of J. David Wiggins helped to support an important study of non-alcoholic fatty liver disease (NAFLD) – the most common liver disease in children and adults. Samer Gawrieh, MD, a gastroenterologist, is focused on determining the genes that influence the risk for NAFLD development and its progression into severe liver disease. A better understanding of the genes involved could lead to the long-term development of more effective drugs for NAFLD. Private funding is often the means for young investigators like Dr. Gawrieh to launch promising research, secure baseline data and ultimately compete for larger, more long-term federal grants.

Signature Society Thank-You Luncheon

In celebration of a growing group of donors committed to the future of Froedtert Hospital, the Froedtert Hospital Foundation hosted its second annual thank-you luncheon for members of the Signature Society – the recognition group exclusively for planned/estate gift donors. The luncheon highlighted testimonials from attendees about life-saving care delivered here.

Almost 60 inches of snow had fallen in Milwaukee when friends of Froedtert Hospital headed to Rio Verde Country Club near Phoenix, Arizona, for the 15th annual Froedtert & The Medical College of Wisconsin Desert Classic. Co-chairs Mark Baumgartner and Gary Zimmerman hosted 86 golfers and sponsors and raised $102,000 for the Small Stones Wellness Center located in the Clinical Cancer Center. This special place is devoted to helping cancer patients manage the physical changes they may experience during treatment and regain confidence about their personal image. Small Stones programs support patients and their families, regardless of financial situation.

Sponsored last year by M&I Bank, the Desert Classic has raised more than $1.1 million to benefit the Froedtert and The Medical College of Wisconsin Clinical Cancer Center. Mark your calendar for the 16th annual event at Rio Verde Country Club, February 27, 2010.

Patrick Blessing was a college freshman when he was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia – a form of white blood cell cancer. After diagnosis, Patrick went to Froedtert Hospital where his treatment included a bone marrow transplant (BMT).

A bone marrow transplant meant that Patrick and his family needed to be away from their Appleton, WI home for an extended period. The family struggled with making alternative living arrangements near the hospital. Then Froedtert stepped in, providing his family with a nearby apartment at virtually no cost to them. There, Patrick’s family could attend to his care, without the financial burden of providing housing so far from home.

“My experience is proof that if you can pay it forward to Froedtert, Froedtert will pay it forward to its patients.”
– Patrick Blessing

Patrick couldn’t be more grateful to Froedtert. “When I reflect on those days, I remember the staff of the BMT unit who treated me with such compassion. I am also eternally grateful to those who funded our stay there. To put it simply, I’m here, living my life because of Froedtert staff and its donors.”

In 2008, Froedtert Hospital Foundation supported the furnishing of a new, additional apartment. This apartment for BMT patients is possible because of donor dollars, gifts given by generous people who chose to help others.

Patrick’s story shows that donations of any size can impact the life of a patient. “I am a prime example of what can happen when people come together to give whatever they can to help another – even when they don’t know that person personally.” Because he would never get to meet or personally thank these donors, it became important to Patrick to “pay it forward.”

When Patrick and his fiancée Christy planned their wedding, he found his opportunity. They asked their guests to make a gift to Froedtert. With each gift, a bell rang in their honor. The newlyweds kissed with each ring of the bell, as the line of joyful and grateful friends and family reached through the hall to the door. And then the Blessings “paid it forward” by directing that tribute to support the BMT apartment – so that other Froedtert families can find comfort in this home away from home.

“My experience is proof that if you can pay it forward to Froedtert, Froedtert will pay it forward to its patients.”
There was no such thing as “big shotting” where Kirby Lawlis was concerned. The former owner and president of Miller Brands always maintained an open-door policy so that anyone, janitor or vice president, could come in to talk with him at any time. He was never “Mr. Lawlis,” always simply “Kirby.” He helped establish Keep Greater Milwaukee Beautiful, a non-profit organization dedicated to community improvement programs, in the 1980s.

Yet after his death in 2002 following a five-year fight against cancer, Kirby’s family was surprised to learn about all the people he quietly helped throughout the years, people who came to his funeral and spoke of his generosity.

His wife, Mary Anne, was the same way. The couple supported numerous local organizations, many of which focused on education and improving the lives of underprivileged children. She and Kirby, married for 47 years, were kindred spirits in their humility, generosity and faith. She lost her own battle with cancer in 2008.

It was through the Greater Milwaukee Foundation that Kirby and Mary Anne’s five grown children learned about the Froedtert & The Medical College of Wisconsin Clinical Cancer Center. Impressed by the “hub” concept that brings all elements of cancer care directly to patients and wanting to do something to memorialize their parents, the Lawlis children chose to support the creation of a meditation room for cancer patients and their families. Through a major, first-time gift from the Greater Milwaukee Foundation’s Lawlis Family Fund, this dedicated quiet space — the Kirby and Mary Anne Lawlis Family Meditation Room — will be located just off the Clinical Cancer Center lobby.

“Both came from humble families and were so grateful for what they had,” recalls their youngest daughter, Sheila Lawlis Monkarsh. “Everything extra was a bonus, and they gave because it was the right thing to do.”

“As a family, we understand the difficulties patients and families face once a cancer diagnosis is made,” says Joanne Lawlis Schulz. “Hopefully the meditation room will provide a place for them to go and find peace and strength.”

The Healing Plaza

Plans for Froedtert Hospital’s new Healing Plaza are moving forward. This green oasis — a park-like area with trees, walking paths, interesting landscaping and other features — will be located just outside the entrances to the Froedtert East Clinics Building and Clinical Cancer Center. It will be a place for patients, their families and staff to pray, grieve, hope, give thanks and remember.

Thanks to a generous lead gift, the space has a new name, the Mortenson Construction Healing Plaza. Additional major gifts have been received from Froedtert Hospital Volunteer Associates and the James E. Dutton Foundation. Grateful patients and their families have also stepped forward with tribute gifts in honor or memory of friends, family and caregivers. Tributes in the form of personal messages from these donors will be displayed on bricks, pavers and benches.

Fundraising continues for the project, which will be entirely donor supported. Groundbreaking is anticipated for spring/summer of 2010. To receive more information on the Healing Plaza, call 414-805-2699 to request a brochure.
We don’t have to tell you that we’re in the middle of some very challenging economic times. We’re all feeling the pinch. When times are tough, the funds our donors contribute are even more important, helping our patients at a more personal level. Funds donated to the Froedtert Hospital Foundation are forwarded to departments such as chaplaincy, indigent care and transplant to help our patients and community.

When money’s tight, people often forgo proactive health screenings in favor of more urgent needs. This past May, over 600 men didn’t have to make that choice. Donor-designated funds to the Froedtert Hospital Foundation supported free prostate cancer screenings for these men.

The screenings took place at Miller Park in two mobile clinic vehicles operated by ZERO: The Project to End Prostate Cancer. The addition of a second vehicle for this year’s screening was funded through the generosity of donors to the Froedtert Hospital Foundation, doubling the number of men that could be screened at the event. Equipped just as a doctor’s office would be, the custom-designed vehicles provide a comfortable, private environment.

In three years, over 1,000 men have been examined at the annual Miller Park screening, and more than 13 percent of those have been flagged with abnormal results. That’s more than 130 men who might have skipped the screening if they were unable to fund it on their own – thanks in part to the generosity of our donors.

The Donald J. Schuenke Cancer Fellowship was established in 2006 as a memorial for Donald J. Schuenke, a dedicated vice chairman of the Froedtert Hospital Foundation Board of Directors, chair of the Froedtert Hospital Foundation’s Board of Directors and CEO of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance. The fellowship was founded as a memorial to Mr. Schuenke’s exemplary efforts and selfless contributions to Froedtert Hospital and the Froedtert Hospital Foundation.

Volunteer Associates

Froedtert Hospital’s Volunteer Associates have been loyal supporters of the Froedtert Hospital Foundation. In this year of budget cuts and tough choices, the Volunteer Associates wanted to help. When asked, they gave $75,000 to purchase new laser and scope technology to treat hundreds of patients each year who are diagnosed with problems of the vocal cords or larynx.

The ability to communicate is important and the potential loss or limitations of speech brings many patients to Froedtert Hospital. They seek the finest specialists, latest technology and advancements born of clinical research. This year, thanks to the Volunteer Associates, our patients will be able to find this state-of-the-art technology right here at Froedtert.

The Signature Society

Signature Society membership is granted to individuals who have made lifetime or estate gifts, such as naming the Froedtert Hospital Foundation in a will or living trust, or completing charitable trust, life insurance, retirement plan or financial account designations. Froedtert Hospital Foundation’s new charitable gift annuity program is the newest way to secure membership in our Signature Society. Recognition of donor involvement is encouraging to others, although complete anonymity is always honored upon request. For more information, or to request our charitable giving newsletter, call Rick Scott at the Froedtert Hospital Foundation at 414-805-1202.
