WHAT IS A T-TUBE CHOLANGIOGRAM?
During this exam, which will take about 1 hour, the radiologist will inject a contrast (x-ray dye) into your t-tube. This contrast helps to visualize the bile ducts. The radiologist will then take several images. You will remain in the x-ray room until the radiologist checks all the images taken.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS:
- If you are pregnant (or think you may be pregnant), or if you are nursing a baby, please inform the radiology staff.
- Please notify the technologist staff if you have any allergies to medicines or contrast.
- Please notify the technologist if you have asthma or are allergic to iodine or shellfish.
- On the day of your exam, please bring with you a list of the medications you are presently taking.

PREPARATION
After midnight before the test -
1. You may only have clear liquids. Clear liquids include broths, bouillon, jellos without fruit, kool-aid, carbonated beverages, fruit juices, tea or coffee, but no milk or cream.
2. You may take your required medicines.
3. You must have an antibiotic 1 hour prior to this procedure and it should be Cipro (or from the Cipro family).

AFTER THE TEST
Your doctor will inform you of the results. You may eat and drink, and take your required medications. REMEMBER...our staff is here to assist you. If you have questions about any part of this test, please ask.

Please arrive 10 minutes prior to your scheduled appointment. To park, enter the campus on 92nd street and go to Parking Area 1. Take the A elevators to enter the hospital lobby on the second floor. Follow the signs to Fluoroscopy and check-in at the reception desk.
