Dear Colleagues,

The events of the past few weeks have been heartbreaking.

Froedtert Health condemns all acts of racial discrimination and calls for systemic change within our community. Only by working together will we be able to make meaningful change.

As health care professionals, it is especially difficult to experience ourselves or witness other people in pain and in need of help. While racial injustices are not new, recent events have pushed the issues of racial disparity into the open. This includes the tragic death of George Floyd at the hands of a Minneapolis police officer. This, coupled with the pressures of managing a pandemic, has heightened the stress and emotional sensitivity of everyone who serves our community.

Encouraged by the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, “In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies but the silence of our friends,” we must make a statement and share some reflections about the recent events that have taken place across the country. Many of these events carry remnants of what has taken place in our local community in the not-so-distant past. In this case, the enemy we face is racism, recurring trauma, violence and disregard for human dignity and respect.

At its core, our job is to care for people. In this work, we are often treating people affected by symptoms caused by racism, trauma and violence. We see the impact of disparity on health outcomes. Furthermore, the stress from these events is linked to chronic health concerns in our community. This is why we support peaceful protest.

Part of our commitment to our community is to make health care equitable for every person every time. We remain committed to these efforts through a number of initiatives designed to increase diversity in our workforce, provide cultural competency training and address social determinants of health.

As an organization, we resolve to use our compassion, creative ideas and collective commitment to ensure we foster a culture that acknowledges everyone equally.

Thank you,

Cathy
Dear Colleagues,

I feel unseen and unheard. Those aren’t my words. Those are the words I’ve heard expressed by some of our colleagues in the past weeks. To anyone who may feel unseen and unheard: I see you. I hear you.

But, it’s not enough for me to say that. What our organization needs is true, believable and meaningful action. Action that helps us eliminate racism and promote a culture based on equity. We know we have gaps.

Last week, I participated in a candid dialogue with a group of senior leaders who have been involved in our equity, diversity and inclusion efforts. We discussed ways Froedtert Health will address these gaps. We’re starting with our more than 800 leaders.

Beginning this week, we will host virtual Q&A sessions with our leaders. This is the first of many steps to help equip our leaders with what they need to have productive, ongoing conversations with employees.

As the caring people who make our organization what it is, what can we do to help our community address our deep racial divide? I don’t have all the answers, but can provide you with a few ideas.

• Learn. Resources are readily available by contacting our Diversity & Inclusion team for recommendations.
• Discuss. Talk to your coworkers. Listen to their experiences. Encourage your teams to have open discussions. For many of us, this will be uncomfortable and that’s OK.
• Participate. Froedtert Health is supportive of peaceful protests. Advocating to eliminate racism helps us preserve, protect and advance the health of the communities we serve. Of course, if you choose to support peaceful protests in your communities, please practice social distancing, hand-washing and mask-wearing guidelines.
• Engage. Froedtert Health sponsors Business Resource Groups and Diversity Action Teams that help foster an inclusive culture. Our BRG groups are open to staff from all backgrounds, departments, entities and capacities. You can also join Workplace Groups like Diversity & Inclusion and Culture of Dignity and Respect to share resources, learning opportunities and participate in dialogue.

This is one of the most important conversations we must continue to have as an organization. While I deliver words in this forum, I know that our actions – both as an organization and as individuals – are what will ultimately drive change and end systemic racism.

Thank you,

Cathy
